Music as an Expression of Changes in Consciousness

February 18–20, 2010

Manfred Bleffert • Donna Burgess • Gayle Davis

The transition in consciousness from the late Renaissance to the early Classical, as expressed in singing and movement, offers us a unique insight into the evolving human being. We will explore through song and dance what lived in the human consciousness and how it developed.

Manfred Bleffert, instrument builder and designer, researcher of music, composer, master of improvisation, performer, teacher. Donna Burgess, dance instructor for Waldorf schools and the community for many years. Gayle Davis, President of Rudolf Steiner College, musician and carrier of the new music impulse, worked in adult education for 25 years. Diane Ingraham Barnes, Werbeck singer and teacher, Waldorf music teacher, performer, and choral conductor for 30 years. Robin Elliott, Werbeck singer and teacher, choral conductor, and musician for 30 years.
